H. A. Sherman,

REVISION ALLOWED

Dreyfus Case Will Be Gone Over Again.

End of Bitter Preliminary Struggle. Col. Waring Dies of Yellow Fever.

THE DREYFUS CASE

The Court Agrees to a Revision, But Will Not Release Dreyfus.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The court of cassation has decided to grant a revision of the Dreyfus case and will institute a supplemental inquiry. The court, however, declines to order the release of Dreyfus.

Paris, Oct. 29.—At the opening of the court of cassation M. Mornard resumed his argument in behalf of the Dreyfus family. He insisted that the Bordereau was not the handwriting of Dreyfus or an imitation by him of the handwriting of Esterhazy, the latter most improbable. If it was not an imitation then the author must be Esterhazy himself. The honor of the army was not involved in the doings of the court martial, as it could err without the honor suffering. The court then retired to deliberate.

Paris, Oct. 29.—It is generally that the court of cassation will accept the conclusion of M. Bard in the Dreyfus case, and order a supplementary investigation. M. Yves Guyot, in Siecle today, asserts that secret documents in the Dreyfus case were burned days ago.

COL. WARING DIED.

A Victim of Yellow Fever Contracted at Havana While on a Mission for the President.

New York, Oct. 29.—Col. George E. Waring, Jr., died at seven forty-five o'clock this morning of yellow fever, at his home where he had been since he arrived from Havana last Tuesday. His doctor was summoned at one o'clock this morning, and found that the patient had been attacked with black vomit. The symptoms continued without cessation until his death. The body was immediately placed in a sealed casket, and will be cremated this afternoon. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Col. Waring was sent to Havana by President McKinley to ascertain the exact sanitary condition of that city, and to form ideas of the best methods for placing it in first class shape. He returned with a great deal of information, but had not yet made his report. The fever developed very rapidly, as it showed no signs on Tuesday, with the exception that he was not feeling very well.

2,906 Soldiers Killed in the War.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Commissioner of Pensions Evans, now here, states that to September 3, the war with Spain had caused the loss of the lives of 2,906 men, soldiers and sailors. The percentage of deaths in camps from disease during the last summer was much less than during the civil war. Twenty-six hundred died in camps or from disease. The deaths resulting from the blowing up of the Maine are placed on the same basis as the mortality in battle.

More Sick Soldiers Arrive.

New York, Oct. 29.—The hospital ship Missouri arrived today from Porto Rico with 300 sick and wounded soldiers aboard. The boys belonged to companies from Illinois, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Soldiers on Strike.

Lexington, Oct. 29.—On account of their disorderly conduct and the several shooting accidents caused by the presence of the soldiers in Lexington, General Sanger, division commander at Camp Hamilton, a few weeks ago issued an order allowing but two passes issued from one company at a time, and compelling all soldiers to be back in camp by dark.

In the Third Kentucky, One Hundred and Sixteenth Indiana and Twelfth New York there is open mutiny. Last night the members of these regiments secretly agreed to rebel against doing any camp service until the order was modified concerning the issuing of passes. The plan was that when the battalions went on dress parade the men were to stack arms and refuse to further drill until a change was made in the order about issuing passes. The officers got wind of the matter, and an order was issued suspending dress parade for the present. A modification of the order will probably be made, but if it is not, serious trouble promises.

CHICKAMAUGA PARK.

War Commission Inspects the Site of Camp Thomas.

Chattanooga, Oct. 29.—The war investigation commission spent the entire day yesterday in inspecting the site of Camp Thomas in Chickamauga park, under the guidance of General Dayton. The inspection covered all points of interest in the park and near its borders which have been involved in the controversy concerning the sanitation of the camp, including Sternberg and Leiter hospitals, with the various springs from which water was secured by the troops, and the point on Chickamauga creek at which the water of the pipe line supply was taken out. Special attention was given to this latter place because of the criticisms that have been made upon this source of the camp's supply.

The commissioners found the intake pipe submerged about 20 feet above the mouth of a tributary creek, known as Cave Spring creek, which drained the camp. The charge had been made that the water from the tributary stream had been contaminated by the pipe water, being carried back into it by means of eddies and in one case by a freshet. General Boynton and Engineer Betts, both of whom had been concerned in locating the pipe line, admitted that Cave Spring creek had once overflowed and broken a dam, thus throwing its water into the main stream above the intake; but they explained that this freshet occurred at night when the pumps were shut down and no water was being taken in. They called attention to the rapidity of the flow and to the depth of the stream and urged the impossibility of infection from this source. General Wilson gave especial attention to the question as an engineering problem, and it was evident from the expressions he dropped that he was impressed with the strong probability, if not the impossibility, of infection from this source. It was also quite evident that a majority of the commission formed the same opinion.

There were many expressions of commendation of the methods followed at Sternberg hospital. They found only 38 patients in the hospital, and most of these were convalescent. Major Giffen, in command of the hospital, said it would soon be abandoned.

The commission also gave attention to the proximity of the various camps to one another and the depth and location of the sinks. The conclusion seemed quite general that many of the regiments were thrown more closely together than they should have been, and that this fault could have been avoided by moving. Many of the sinks were also found to have been nearer to the tents than proper ideas of sanitation encouraged, and in some cases the character of the surface was such as to warrant the conviction that the sinks were shallower than they should have been, but this was true only of parts of the camp.

After concluding the inspection of the camp, Major Giffen was asked to make a statement concerning criticisms of the hospitals made in Vermont newspapers by Frank A. Bailey, who had spent six weeks in the hospital nursing his brother. When he returned home he wrote an article saying, among other things, that he had heard physicians in the hospital tell attendants to give their attention to patients who had a chance to recover and not nurse those who were sure to die. In the presence of these denials for the latter class, affix that he had heard other physicians instruct their helpers to give ice cold baths with the view of "finishing" their patients. Dr. Giffen pronounced as false all the statements made.

Dr. Craig, bacteriologist of the Sternberg hospital, was questioned especially with reference to the water supply of the camp, and expressed the opinion that the water taken from Chickamauga river through the pipe system was purer than that in the wells and springs. He had found sewer bacilli in one or two of the wells, though no typhoid germs. He had also found impurities in water taken from some of the springs. He had made two analyses of the water from the river, one before the July freshet and the other after it, and had found it to be entirely wholesome from a bacteriological standpoint. It was muddy, and he thought it should be filtered. He had also made tests which convinced him that there was no danger of eddies carrying the water of the Cave Spring creek into the pipes. Dr. Craig expressed the decided opinion that common house flies are capable of proving a decided source of disease infection, and he detailed bacteriological tests, showing that they carried typhoid germs upon their feet. He also said that from a number of flies which had been placed in sugar impregnated with the germs he had procured a pure typhoid bacillus culture.

Fire in Grain Buildings.

Fall River, Oct. 29.—The hay and grain buildings of Mackenzie & Winslow were burned last night. The fire caught in the loft, where 45 people were at work, and spread so rapidly that a second alarm was necessary. To use sufficient hose it was necessary to stretch the lines over the railroad, and in so doing 12 trains were delayed until 7:20. The total loss by the fire was $25,000.

4.30.

FRENCH TROUBLES.

Can't Find a Minister of War.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The newspapers here consider that the difficulty which is delaying the formation of a new cabinet lies in the selection of a minister of war. If M. de Freycinet refuses to accept the portfolio of war, it is believed M. Dupuy will not find a general willing to accept it.

Indian Affairs.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Secretary Bliss has been investigating the alleged scandals in connection with the sale of timber land of the Chippewa Indians, and will treat the subject in his forthcoming report to congress. The charges upon investigation are shown to be utterly without foundation.

May Arbitrate.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29.—The injunction cases against the miners of Vir-dien brought by the Chicago-Vir-dien company enjoining the miners from interfering with operations at the mine was today dismissed by the complainant. It is believed this is preliminary to an effort to arbitrate the differences between company and employees.

Czar Means Business.

London, Oct. 29.—W. T. Stead, in a letter from St. Petersburg, says: "The action taken by the czar on his own initiative in summoning a conference of all the nations to consider whether anything can be done to secure an arrest of armaments affords an opportunity for the friends of peace in the United States to do a stroke of good business both for the cause and their country. The czar has been plentifully plied with cold douches of scepticism, ridicule and scorn. The diplomats, the sovereigns and the ministers of the old world have no faith in the humanitarian enthusiasm of the young emperor. Even among his own ministers there are many who have little sympathy with his chivalrous crusade of peace; but Nicholas II means business, and he is going through with this business as best he can with such support as he can command. "If there be any real enthusiasm of humanity anywhere in the new world it ought to be easily evoked and strongly expressed in support of his valorous declaration of war against the ruinous armaments of the modern world. Of one thing Americans may be sure: the more enthusiastically they make a list and effective their response to the appeal of the young emperor, the better it will be for the future relations of the two countries. The United States, after the Russian empire, is the greatest human aggregation that will be represented at the conference. "A thousand Americans scattered up and down Europe and Siberia would lift up their voices in many dark places and help to red the czar's spirit along a little more rapidly than it moves at present. A point upon which the Russians, or rather some Russians, see in pending danger, is the certainty, which the American ambassador here never loses an opportunity of emphasizing that the United States will stand no interference with the open door policy in China. In Mr. Hitchcock, the United States has been fortunate to find a thorough business man who has spent years of his life in the Chinese trade. He knows the value of China to American commerce, and he has no intention of allowing any obstacle to be placed in the way of its development. Russia may come to Port Arthur and Tientsin, and welcome, but let her beware of attempting to close the door that was open by the treaty of Peking. If she were to try to close it, all the powers, America included, would know the reason why. Mr. Hitchcock does not for a moment credit the notion that Russia intends to close it, but he is not less confident that even if she did she could do no such thing. This in no way disturbs the government, which is loyal to its treaty obligation; but it alarms some of the chauvinists."

Dress Reformers Meet.
Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—Dress, particularly the short skirted kind, was the main topic of the women's national council yesterday. Interesting points were brought out, such as man's appropriation of trousers, which had been the invention of woman, when man was the warrior and did not have time to attend to any business; the effect of short skirts upon the morals of young men and the need of the latter to be disciplined by the constant object lesson of the former, and finally the anatomical information that the true dividing line of the body is just below the navel ribs.

More Yellow Fever.
Louisville, Oct. 29.—The impression that yellow fever had been practically blotted out by the cold weather and frost was dissipated by reports from the far south that the epidemic had taken a new lease of life in two localities. The weather has again turned warm, and to this new state of affairs is charged four deaths have occurred in Natchez in the past few days, being those of prominent citizens, and new cases are developing daily. The fever is now in every ward and on almost every street in the city. Madison, Miss., reports six new cases of fever.

See That They Gain.
Brookton, Mass., Oct. 29.—The Lanterns' union had an attendance of 600 union men at its meeting last night, when 78 applicants were admitted. It is claimed that the strike is virtually a victory for the strikers over the lantern machine companies inasmuch as the latter are to employ only union help; but, significantly enough, the union officials decline to discuss this point.

LOCAL NEWS.

WILL RECOMMEND A SITE.

School Board Will Probably Ask Council to Buy Hospital Property.

A meeting of the school committee was held last evening, and the matter of a site for a ward school again discussed. The committee is favorable to the hospital property, which has been most considered, and the committee will probably recommend to the city council next Tuesday evening that the property be purchased.

The hospital board has consulted with the committee, and a price practically named, but this will not be definitely set till the property has been surveyed. This will be done before the meeting of the council, in all probability.

BIG ATTACHMENT PLACED

On New Rogers Leather Company For Alleged Breach of Contract.

An attachment for $5000 in favor of W. W. Anthony was placed on the property of the new Rogers leather company by Deputy Sheriff Parker this afternoon. It is on an alleged breach of contract.

Mr. Anthony has been a salesman for the company, and claims that the firm broke faith with him. It is not expected that any other claims will complicate the affairs of the firm.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Commissioner Enright is in Pittsfield today examining the ceilings of the new high school there for the city.

John H. Mack will speak at a big democratic rally in Lynn next week in favor of Mayor Ramsdell for congress.

Miss Claudia B. Shurtliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Shurtliff of 31 North Eagle street, will be married to John Martin this evening.

The wheel which Superintendent Hall captured yesterday believing it to be the one stolen from his son, furnished another case of mistaken identity, although it was almost the duplicate, even to repairs made, of the one that was stolen.

DREYFUS CASE.

Secure Not More Sympathy For the Army Than the Truth.

Paris, Oct. 29.—Yesterday's proceedings at the court of cassation were devoid of sensation. The only emotion caused ensued upon the reading of pathetic letters from Dreyfus. A significant point was the revelation of the fact that General Dedebeffro gave orders, after the Dreyfus case was supposed closed, for the dossier, containing the bordereau, to be burned, and expressed surprise afterward to find that his orders had not been executed. Thus for the war office has not been represented in the present proceedings, and there is still but little hope of the secret dossier being produced, especially if, as looks somewhat doubtful, Mr. Dupuy succeeds in forming a cabinet. He was premier during the Dreyfus trial, and his appointment as premier has rendered the country in considering that he is the author, and what a service he will have rendered to unhappy Dreyfus. Mr. Manau concluded with denouncing the "villainous attacks on the partisans of revision," and made a strong plea that the court be not influenced by outside pressure, but that it decide in favor of a revision of the case and the provisional liberation of Dreyfus.

It is asserted that the father-in-law of Dreyfus has received a letter from the prisoner in his own handwriting. Formerly only copies of his letters were transmitted, and the new departure is regarded as a favorable sign.

The public prosecutor argued on the same lines as Mr. Bard, urging a revision of the trial, and dwelling upon the fallibility of the writing experts. He also suggested that Major Esterhazy should testify on the subject of the bordereau, saying: "He can admit its authorship with impunity, since a court-martial has acquitted him of being the author of it. But what a service he has rendered the country in confessing that he is the author, and what a service he will have rendered to unhappy Dreyfus." Mr. Manau concluded with denouncing the "villainous attacks on the partisans of revision," and made a strong plea that the court be not influenced by outside pressure, but that it decide in favor of a revision of the case and the provisional liberation of Dreyfus.

Haverhill Buildings Burned.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 29.—Two four-story buildings in the center of the business district of this city were totally destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of about $50,000, which is well covered by insurance.

Within 15 minutes after the drygoods store of T. W. Jacobs & Son had been closed for the night an explosion took place in the basement from some cause at present unknown, and in a short time the building was on fire from basement to roof. The adjoining building, occupied on the first floor by Edward A. Mitchell, druggist, and on the upper floors by Jacobs & Son and A. Tilden, photographer, quickly caught fire and was wholly consumed.

These buildings were shut off from the surrounding structures by fire walls, and the flames were held within these limits, although W. P. Meland and Warren Emerson, who occupied stores next to the burned property, will suffer considerable loss by smoke and water.

The individual losses, as at present estimated, are: T. W. Jacobs & Son, $20,000 on stock; Herbert B. Newton, owner of the Jacob building, $10,000; Edward A. Mitchell, druggist, $5,000; C. H. Tarleton, owner of the second building, $3,000; A. B. Tilden, photographer, $4,000.

It is not the fault of those who habited the various structures here have been reported for his falling off.—Chattanooga Times.

Bands Consolidated—Livery Stable Attached—Harvest Festival to be Held.

BANDS CONSOLIDATE.

The members of the Citizens' band and those of the former Cornet band met in Houghton hall Thursday evening to discuss the question of organizing a new band composed of both, and it was decided to take this step. The result will be a band of about 24 pieces and the best in the history of the town. The name of the band has not yet been selected. C. F. Moon of Houghton Falls N. Y. who has been the instructor of the Citizens' band will be retained as an instructor of the new organization. A business manager and a treasurer will be selected next Tuesday evening, when the first rehearsal will be held in Houghton hall.

LIVERY STABLE ATTACHED.

F. A. West's livery stable was attached Thursday by Sheriff Frink of North Adams in favor of Abraham E. Fane of Springfield. The amount of liabilities, etc., is not known. Mr. West bought the business last spring of F. J. Barber of North Adams, who a short time before traded real estate on Spring street to M. M. Gavitt for it. Mr. West has done a good business and has added considerably to the equipment. Edgar Noel, the foreman, was appointed keeper. Mr. West is well liked by his patrons and the people of the town who have become acquainted with him, and all hope he will soon be able to extricate himself from his embezzlement. The business is conducted in the Greylock bar and was carried on successfully for many years by M. M. Gavitt.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

The harvest festival at St. John's church Sunday evening will be an interesting service. The church will be prettily decorated with autumn foliage, fruits and vegetables, and the music will be especially fine. Philip Dunbar, violinist, and Guy Town, cornetist, assisting the choir. The church will be filled.

Corporal John R. Ward has been the guest of Officer and Mrs. James F. Dean of Pittsfield for a few days. He is a member of a Tennessee regiment and has been home for some time on a furlough. He expects to return next week.

The Williams college calendar for the year has been completed by Dr. E. B. Parsons, secretary of the faculty, as follows: November 24, Thanksgiving day; December 22 to January 11, Christmas recess; January 30, semi-annual examinations; February 9, beginning second half year; March 30 to April 5, Easter recess; June 7 to 16, semi-annual examinations; June 18, Baccalaureate sermon to graduating class; June 21, commencement; September 2, beginning college year.

F. A. West went to Springfield Friday on business.

The fall cleaning is in progress at the Greylock preparatory to closing the house for the winter, which will be done Monday.

The Williams college Y. M. C. A. was represented at the recent convention in Lynn by Shipherd '99, Sherry '99, and Page 1900.

The classical society has organized with Foster '99, president, Stiles 1900, secretary, and Professor Wild, faculty adviser.

Registrations will close tonight at 10 o'clock and every voter who has not already done so should see that his name is on the list.

William Madden, Frank Deebie and T. M. Welch went to Albany today for a few days' visit.

A son was born Thursday night to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reuther.

Deputy Commissioner John H. Manning of Pittsfield was in town Friday afternoon.

George Shand of Adams was in town Friday on business.

Rev. G. P. Merrett, 1900, addressed the Y. M. C. A. meeting at Greylock Friday evening and will lead the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. in North Adams Sunday afternoon.

The winter supper at Sweet's Corners Baptist church Friday evening was well attended, the evening being particularly pleasant. The occasion was much enjoyed and a neat sum was netted for the church.

The Williams-Timothy football game on Weston field this afternoon was well attended.

Rev. W. R. Stocking returned Thursday from a few days' trip to Dalton and Hancock and to Hartford, N. Y. He attended the Congregational conference in Dalton, and in Hancock he visited his daughter, who is teaching school there.

The Golf club house is still open, but will probably be closed soon for the season.

Miss Malone from Honolulu is visiting Miss Hopper of Spring street.

A noon supper will be served at Cheever's restaurant on Spring street tonight.

Marcus White carefully laid a few books on a seat on Weston field the other day and when he returned for them they were gone. He thinks they were taken by boys.

Mrs. O. M. Blacklock lost a valuable feather box recently while riding home from South Williamstown on the river road. The article is advertised at the foot of this column.

An account of the football game between the High school team and the Drury team at North Adams Thursday afternoon appeared in Friday's paper. The Williams-Timothy game was not fairly treated by the umpire and that they were justified in withdrawing from the game. They say they hope to play another game with Drury and to have an outside referee.

At the concert and ball to be given November 11 for the benefit of Porter's orchestra, F. J. Pease will act as floor director and his aids will be C. U. Wheldon, Fred Prindle and A. E. Evings. Cake and ice cream will be served in the hall. Tickets for the concert will be 25 cents and dance tickets will be 50 cents.

FASHION AND FABRIC.

The fall shades, both in silk and cloth, and even when combined with bright colors, are still quiet in effect.

The soft warm brown and a pretty soft blue are found in combination this year, both in materials and in gowns.

Many handsome imported gowns are in evidence of delicate shades. A course lace applique is seen on handsome afternoon and evening gowns.

Stylish skirts are made with the plaid on the bias and apparently of the finest woolen material of which gowns are made. They are pretty on slender women.

The baby Persian lamb is to be found as an effective trimming on the bodies of many gowns. It is effective in giving character to a gown of one of the pretty shades of brown.

Chinchilla in narrow bands finishes the bottom and outlines panels of handsome morning and evening gowns, and with excellent effect, though some people object always to fur on house gowns.

Very pretty jackets of fawn color, stylish lined with silk stripes and plaids, are to be found at reasonable prices. A stylish jacket has a straight, loose front, one upper and two lower pockets.

Rhinestone buttons, large and small, appear on many pretty frocks, out steel ornaments, a large plain crystal button, and there is nothing prettier than the plain crystal button which has no ornamentation.

The very becoming medall collar is seen on many reception gowns. With this high collar in the back and lapels at either side, a square cut neck filled in with soft puffed null, the effect is very pretty and much affected by elderly women.

The lining of your gown this season must be of the same color as it or as the trimmings to be found. They may be shaded lighter if desired, but there must be no contrast. These small things do much to make the general elegance of the gown.—New York Times.

LAW POINTS.

One is not liable for holding himself out as a member of a firm unless the debt was incurred through reliance on his credit as an inducement thereto.

If there has been a bona fide controversy and a compromise thereof, such settlement, in the absence of fraud or mistake, is binding upon the parties thereto as an original contract.

Title to personal property remains in the seller, when sold on condition, until the condition has been complied with, so that on breach thereof he is entitled to recover the property.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Employer and Driver—War and the Inventors—Volcanic France.

[Special Correspondence.]
The heavy beer wagon lumbered down Thirteenth street and turned sharply into F street. The two giant horses reared upon their haunches as the driver suddenly drew back on the reins. But it was too late. He had turned the corner so swiftly that he had not noticed the short, stout man who was trying to get out of the way of the big horses. The little man held his umbrella up as a shield, but in vain. The nearest horse struck him and knocked him backward into the street. Luckily the speed had been checked sufficiently so that the horse did not tread upon the prostrate form.

A policeman rushed up and jerked the terrified driver from his seat. Crowds of citizens rushed to the aid of the fallen man and assisted him to his feet. He commenced to swear vigorously in spite of the profanity ordinance which made him eligible for arrest.

"Officer," he cried angrily as he brushed his clothes, "must a man wear a fender when he crosses the street? Is there no protection from those ignorant drivers of beer wagons? Here, you idiotic driver! You're a thief, and a thief and something else! Can't you see, you unprintable thing? How dare you run your clothes by turning that corner so sharply? How dare you laugh at me, you son of a so? I'll have you arrested. I'll have your employer fined. Officer, hold that man until his employer pays me for the damage done me. Any man who will employ such an ignorant blockhead as a driver ought to be compelled to pay a fine of $1,000. I'll sue about this, bupkin."

The driver, at first afraid to look at the man, then, knocked down, pushed his way through the crowd to beg for leniency. Suddenly he cried, "It's the master," he gasped, "an I never see him. I lose mine job sure here."

"Officer," interrupted the short, stout man, "let the man go. I will settle with him. And never mind what I said about suing his employer. The man drove for me."

The short, stout man was connected with a well known brewery in Washington and presumably squared things with his driver later that night.

War and the Inventors.

Commissioner of Patents Duell says he noticed a slight decline in the applications for patents during the war and attributes it to the fact that many mechanicians who are inventors enlisted, for since peace has been established applications for patents are again normal. The war naturally stimulated the minds of inventors, and, as a consequence, hundreds of applications have been filed for military apparatus and engines. In some future war some of the things for which applications for patents are made will be valuable agents, but many are the work of cranks and have no value except to the student of psychology.

Some of these applications are amusing enough. One from a minister of the gospel in Texas, accompanying a bomb, which, it is claimed, will destroy the next battleship the moment it strikes in dock, apologizes for the fact that he of his profession, whose duty it is to save souls, should have invented so destructive an engine. He explains, however, that the quicker the war is ended and the more destructive it is the more souls will be saved, thinking perhaps to conduct conversions in the same manner that the Irishman converted the drowning Jew, who, after making him repeat the Creed, thrust the poor Hebrew under the water, rejoicing that he had saved one soul.

Volcanic France.

"Matters in France may quiet down in a little while and things regain their normal condition, but just at present the outlook is decidedly stormy," said Mr. W. Hillman of London to some newspaper men the other evening.

"The whole atmosphere of the nation right now is volcanic, and there is no telling when an upheaval may come. All this is by no means pleasant for the foreigners who have gone to great trouble and expense to make an exhibit at the Paris exposition, and lots of them would pay handsomely for a guarantee that peace would be maintained until the exposition was over. The situation at best is disquieting, and there are many who believe that such a state of revolution will exist when the time comes for holding it that the exposition will have to be abandoned."

"The best reason for doubting these gloomy predictions is that there is no single individual in France with enough prestige and ability to play the role of Bonaparte. If the great emperor could come back to earth, he would work his own sweet will with the republic."

Followed by Mr. Hillman.

"Wherever we went on the Hawaiian Islands," said Senator Morgan of Alabama, one of the commissioners whom President McKinley named to recommend a code of laws and a form of government for our possessions recently acquired, "we were followed by the ex-queen, Liliuokalani. She pursued us from island to island, and at different places held a 'houkupo,' or native reception. She was attended by a few of the Kahunas and one or two white people. In these meetings the homage of some of her former subjects she was able to take up frequent collections. The Hawaiians in many instances brought her presents, and often there were native feasts, the winds being of course contributed by those attending."

Progress in Korea.

The bimonthly report to the state department from Korea show that the foreign trade of the Korean Kingdom in 1897 was almost double the highest figures that were ever recorded before, and that the increase of imports from the United States was quite noticeable.

CARL SCHOFER.

As we were reporting that the emperor of China and his aunt, the dowager empress, were living happily together, and that he was only six advisers of his imperial highness whom the worthy lady had named. Thus it is that an aged man disgraced.

When the Pope Dies, It Will Be Extinguished.

That wonderful old man, Leo XIII, has really made another recovery. It was only the other morning that, turning to his personal attendant, he said with his sweet smile, "Well, Pius, wonder what the will say now, those clever persons who are killed and buried no so often in the last 90 years."

Cavaliere Pio Centra, the private servant of Leo XIII, tells from Carpineto, the birthplace of his master. He is more even than a faithful and privileged servant, he is a constant companion. This intimate connection with his holiness dates back even before the ascension of Leo XIII to the papal throne. Pio invariably sleeps in a small chamber next the bedroom of the pope, and there is between the two so thin a partition that he can even hear the pontiff's breathing. At all times he is able to keep surveillance by the aid of a little glass window, which is at the head of his bed. With the telephone he is put in constant connection with the pope's doctor, Professor Lippini, who lives on the Vatican. Besides this eminent physician there are two assistant doctors, who live in the palace and have the care of the health of the 500 souls who comprise the population of the Vatican. In the days of Pius IX there were many more who made their abode there.

Even now that the pontiff is so old and far from feeling robust, he insists on rising early. About 6 o'clock Cavaliere Pio Centra knocks at his door, opens the shutters and retires immediately, as his holiness has never liked assistance in his ordinary dressing, but lately he has had to give way somewhat, and his valet returns to buckle his shoes and tie the white sash he wears with his white robes.

By an arrangement between the police and the papal authorities a window next the papal apartments is kept open during the day and closed at night, but with a lighted lamp behind it. The shutting of the window in day or the putting out of the light at night means that something unusual has happened, and that help is needed. In case of the illness of the pope this singular sign would mean that he is dead. An Italian sentinel is continually watching the window. However, this did not prevent the mistake of General Della Roca, undersecretary of state at the home office in the Crispal cabinet in 1878, who announced in the house the death of Pius IX five hours before it took place.—Fall Mail Gazette.

CHURCH NOTICES.

UNIVERSALIST

The pastor's subject for Sunday morning will be "Wanted—A Man." In the evening he will exchange pulpits with Rev. W. W. Cur of Fidelity Methodist church.

A Sunday school rally will be held at noon. An interesting program has been arranged and all friends of the school are invited.

METHODIST

The pastor's subject for Sunday morning will be "The River of Life." Rev. O. I. Darling will preach in the evening in exchange with the pastor.

The regular meeting of the Epworth league will be held Sunday evening. The subject will be "The Call of Elisha." George Sherman will lead.

The pastor's class will meet as usual this evening.

The ladies will serve their regular supper next Wednesday evening.

BAPTIST

The pastor's subject for Sunday morning will be "The Supreme Question of the Gospels." In the evening he will give the second of his series of sermons on "Life's Habits." The subject will be "The Power of Habit."

The regular meeting of the Young Peoples union will be held Sunday evening. The subject will be "Leaders and Triumphs in Japan." It will be a conquest meeting. Miss Lillian Green will lead.

ST MARKS

The harvest dinner served at the parish house Thursday afternoon was well attended. The dinner was a good one. About $28 was cleared. The regular supper will be served next Tuesday evening.

ROBERT EMMET BAZAAR

There was a good attendance at the Emmet bazaar in the opera house Friday evening. During the early part of the evening the canvassers did some good work. Dancing began about 10 o'clock and was enjoyed for several hours. The music furnished by the Rooster orchestra was very good. James Kiley was prompter. These articles were awarded: Boys suit to Helen Bonville $5 gold piece to Ellen Heenan $5 gold piece on season ticket to E. McDonald. Water to Mrs. William Russell ham to Mrs. James Day guitar to John Haggerty half barrel of ale to Emma Gravel box of candy to Joseph Simons mirror to A. H. Simons candle to Henry T. Barrett case of wine to Rudolph Wittig. The fair will close this evening when all the articles will be awarded.

ISHAM'S OCTOROOONS

The attraction at the opera house next Tuesday evening will be John W. Isham's Octoroons. For five years this organization has been successfully touring the country every season presenting some new feature for the enjoyment of the public. This year they come with an entirely new and original musical farce entitled "A Tenderloin Coon." And while several of last year's favorites are retained there has been sufficient new blood added to the company to give it new vim and sparkle. Six comedians each of whom cannot only sing but also dance as only colored people can are in the cast and their work together as well as in their single specialties is a revelation in the line of grotesqueness and originality. The ladies are all young and pretty and appear in costumes that are remarkable for their beauty and novelty in color combinations as well as for their modish appearance.

HAND CAUGHT IN GEARS

Miss Agnes Gaudette a young lady employed in the weaving department of Berkshire mill No. 3 met with a painful accident Friday afternoon. She was working at her loom when her right hand caught in the gears and was injured. The index finger of her hand was badly cut and lacerated and she nearly fainted. A loomfixer happened near by and stopped the loom. She was taken to Dr. A. K. Boon's office and he dressed the injuries. She will be unable to work for a week or more.

STRUCK BY A WHIRLWIND

The heavy wind Thursday afternoon caused considerable damage. On Murray street a whirlwind swept along the road and into an open lot just west of Mrs. M. M. Donahue's grocery store. There it raised a pile of weeds into the air, it crossed a small brook and seemed to raise fully a barrel of water. It struck a large hen coop owned by Rufus Forges and raised it into the air the building swayed to and fro and then turned over and fell to the ground about 20 feet from its foundation. The roof was torn off completely. The damage will amount to about $50.

SOLD HIS TROTTER

George Mauser of Dean street has sold his bay trotting mare. Thelmer to George C. Hawley of Albany. N. Y. Mr. Hawley is an agent of the Dobler Brewing company and has a mate for Mr. Mauser's horse. Thelmer did not make an extra good showing in the preliminary race at the fair in North Adams recently yet she has been known to do a mile in private better than 2:27. Mr. Hawley believes when he has the pair hitched together they will trot better than 2:40 which is considered very good for a double team.

NOTRE DAME FESTIVAL

There was a satisfactory attendance at the October festival in the old French church Friday evening. The concert consisted of songs by Edward Riley, Daniel Kiley and George F. Dugan. Thomas Palmer played a violin solo with variations and Charles Carlow gave some band selections. The brilliant quartet also sang. Harry Smith played the accompaniments. The evening proved an enjoyable one. The bazaar will continue this evening. A magician will entertain.

Mrs. Christina Webber of Summit street has bought the Miller property on the corner of Summit and Hilbert streets and is to erect a store and a tenement there.

John Cunningham of this town was released from jail yesterday after serving a two months' term for drunkenness and proceeded immediately to get drunk again. He was arrested at the depot on this morning. Judge Tucker of Pittsfield sent him back to jail for another two months.

Miss Rose Riley of West Street bridge visited friends here Friday.

L. J. Peck of Pittsfield spent Friday afternoon with friends here.

Miss Nellie King entertained friends at her home Thursday evening.

A singing musical program was rendered.

F. D. Mole and M. J. Holden purchased two handsome diving horses while in Boston this week.

The regular meeting of W. C. Plunkett camp Sons of Veterans will be held this evening.

A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jarvis of Pearl street.

Thomas Johnson of Renfrew has been ill the past few days.

Frank Sheridan of Renfrew is ill with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Thomas Tully of Burt street is in New York.

The horse house on Park street, the windows of the Foresters' quarters in Bank block the A. O. U. W. and Odd Fellows' quarters in Richmond block on Center street have all been draped with mourning for the late James R. Pickett.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen of Mill street are visiting in New York.

Amos Turner and Louis Rust have bought out John Grace's blacksmith shop on Myrtle street.

John Maloney of company M who has been sick at Easthampton reported at the armory here Friday.

The funeral of Willis Harrington was held from his late home Friday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Zahner officiated.

A good 10 cent supper is being served at the old St. Charles church this evening. It is the last of a series.

Edward Simmons of Temple street stepped off the sidewalk on Center street Friday afternoon. He had to be assisted to his feet and was injured somewhat.

There were about 40 people at the Sons of Veterans dance in G. A. R. hall Friday evening. All had a pleasant time.

The Halloween social by the Renfrew Caledonian club at their hall Friday evening proved a very pleasant event.

CARELESSNESS.

Often Causes No End of Suffering.

Probably half the people who see this article suffer from Piles. It is one of the commonest diseases and one of the most obstinate. People have it for years and just because it is not immediately fatal they neglect it. Carelessness causes no end of suffering. Carelessness about so simple a thing as piles has often caused death. Hemorrhages occur during surgical treatment often causing death.

Piles are simple in the beginning and easily cured. They can be cured even in the worst stages without pain or loss of blood, quickly surely and completely. There is only one remedy that will do it—Pyramid Pile Cure.

It allays the inflammation immediately, heals the irritated surface and with continued treatment reduces the swelling and puts the membranes into good sound, healthy condition. The cure is thorough and permanent. Druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents. Send for Free book on cause and cure of Piles by addressing Pyramid Co. Marshall Mich.

*E. H. Chase & Co's pure barley malt whiskey is recommended by physicians for household and medicinal use. M. M. Welch & Co. and all druggists.

NUB OF THE CONTROVERSY.

The British government wants the French government to withdraw its troops from Fashoda because the British government wants Fashoda. The French government wants to keep its troops in Fashoda because the French government wants Fashoda. There's the nub of the controversy between the two governments which threatens to precipitate a war.

The English have earned title to Fashoda by their splendid subjugation of the Dervishes and capture of Khartoum. While Kitchener was advancing upon Khartoum to overwhelm the Khalifa, Marchand led a body of French troops into Fashoda. Kitchener had to fight to get possession, but Marchand had only to march.

After installing himself at Khartoum, Kitchener immediately dispatched troops to occupy Fashoda, which all along was an objective seizure, to make sure the British control of eastern Africa. When his troops arrived in Fashoda they found the French in possession much to their astonishment. The French insisted upon their right to remain, having made a peaceful conquest.

Thereupon the question of title and right of occupancy was referred to the foreign offices of the two governments. Great Britain promptly notified France to take her troops out of Fashoda. France replied that she could not or would not do so until she had heard from Gen. Marchand. That reply was sufficient to stay further proceedings until Marchand can be heard from. What his report will be is immaterial. Great Britain will renew the demand for the withdrawal of the French troops, and if they are not taken away a fight will ensue.

That fight will embroil the two governments in war. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the British exchequer, yesterday in a public speech clearly outlined what the policy of Great Britain would be. He said as plainly as he could say it that Great Britain will fight France if the French troops are not recalled from Fashoda.

The French government is not insensible to the gravity of the situation. Active and elaborate preparations are being made to place the army on a war footing. The spirit of the French peoples chafes for war. The French want to have trouble. They have been trying to have it among themselves and, failing, must ensue the tension by having it with somebody else. They'd just as soon fight over a strip of arid desert in Africa as over a question affecting the destiny of mankind.

The hopes of the leaders of the republic is that the French people will see that a quarrel over the possession of Fashoda would be, after all, a needless one and would lack justification by any real title the French may have to the coveted strip. Marchand stole in there while the British were removing the armed obstacles to their advance into the country. There is room in Africa for both countries to exercise their sovereignty and a war over an inconsequential stretch of shifting sand would be calamitous to France.

SUCCESS OF WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

The home of Susan B. Anthony is Rochester, N. Y., and in that city is one of the strongest equal suffrage clubs in the country. Miss Anthony has passed her 73rd birthday, and has been for more than 50 years advocating woman suffrage. The degree of success attendant upon her efforts was recounted at a recent meeting of the Rochester club. It was said that today there is a woman in the state senate of Utah, the Hon. Mrs. Martha Hughes Cannon; a woman in the assembly of Colorado—the Hon. Mrs. Martha A. B. Conner; a woman superintendent of public instruction in the same state—the Hon. Miss Grace Espy Patton. Miss Patton has supervision over the schools of 59 counties. Miss Estelle Steel is national superintendent of Indian schools. There are also in numerous places in the country women who hold other as school inspectors, trustees, etc. A review of the case throughout the world showed women privileged to vote in Australia. In New Zealand and Tasmania the same reform is soon expected, the subject being before parliament. The advancement of women as respects conditions and labor has been notable in England. In India women are now allowed to pursue the higher education. Denmark has widely spread women's clubs and Norway has asked parliament for equal suffrage. Unmarried women vote in Finland and are eligible to municipal offices. There is a district in Russia where women preside as mayors of small towns. France is expected to pass a law allowing women to practice medicine. Queen Elizabeth has received the degree of M. D. In Japan women are beginning to take part in public affairs, and have an acknowledged individuality.

Capt. James G. Blaine has been relieved from military duty, and the service from an insufferable prig.

David B. Hill puts himself on record in favor of conducting an old time knock-down and drag-out election.

And now it appears that France had a crisis so that General Marchand could get out of Fashoda with his honor.

Having projected himself into the New York campaign, Croker fondly imagines that the race is as good as won.

Gen. Greely is determined that the country shall know that his department performed signal service during the late war.

Now that Sheriff John Parker has announced that he will be a majority candidate the contest may be said to be on. Here's hoping that it will be conducted in a clean as well as vigorous manner.

The local members of the League of American Wheelmen and the Central Labor union are most recent bodies to give attention to politics and political candidates to inform themselves as to how their interests will fare in case of the election of certain aspirants. Political candidates today must expect to be all round, many-sided men prepared to lend their best efforts in numerous directions.

Sonnet to Massachusetts.

Great commonwealth of the Pilgrims,
those men
Of faith and courage strong, who braved the seas,
The untitled soil, the Aborigines;
The centuries have tested thee; and when
The future flows into the past and then
A greater life is lived, the Truth
divine that frees
Shall still unfold fresh miracles to please.
And move to gratitude both heart and pen.
Alert in thoughts and things, toil on to bring
The better day that dawns, as onward roll
The spheres, and choir celestial happy sing.
Thy massive hills* speak to the waiting soul
The message masterful of duty, King of time, golden crowned at eternity's goal.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER

GREAT ACTIVITY STILL CONTINUES IN THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD.

The Merchants' Association and the Conference at Chicago and St. Louis—The American Versus the British Consular Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the current belief that no person not having a written pass may visit the navy yard and that no one unacquainted with an officer on board may inspect any of the vessels now lying here, hundreds enter the gates of the yard every day, and the ships are literally overrun with visitors. To such an extent is this latter statement true that it is a wonder the men employed in refitting the vessels are able to do their work at all, and it is a certainty that they are much hampered. But it must be said that courtesy to visitors continues to be the rule on board United States naval vessels. Jackies and officers alike devote their time to answering questions with as much cheerfulness as if not quite so much enthusiasm as when the fleet had just come north from Cuba. Few souvenirs are given to visitors now, however, either through courtesy or for a price, though this is probably as much because the souvenirs have about run out as from any other cause.

More Active Service?

It is clear from the way such vessels as the New York, Sampson's flagship off Santiago, and the Brooklyn, Schley's flagship, are being refitted that the department is not at all sure active service for the navy is yet over. It is true that on the New York wooden hatches are being replaced by iron ones, that the old ones of wood just before the war began, that the prow ornaments of the same vessel are being refitted, and that many concessions to the requirements of comfort and decoration are being made on most of the other vessels now lying at this port. At the same time the pure white paint of peaceful times is not going back on the sides of the boats, the ugly lead color of war, which blends well with sky and sea, being used instead, so that two or three hours would be plenty of time to render any one of them quite as inconspicuous at sea as ever it was.

Repairs to engines also and other pieces of machinery are going on with a degree of rush and hurry that never was known in peaceful times, now heavy guns are being mounted wherever weakness in the places through many things is suspected, and in many ways the activity of the yard is fully as great as it was during the few weeks before the blockade's beginning, if not greater. Every vessel is crowded with skilled electricians, steamfitters, woodworkers, painters and other mechanics; every shop is teeming with workmen, every machine is doing its full duty, raw men are being persistently and thoroughly drilled on the receiving ship Vermont; the entire outfit, in fact, is instinct with life and the atmosphere is as thoroughly charged with the idea of getting everything in readiness for grim business as it was for more than a score of years with that of dilly dallying and slumber.

Merchants' Association Activities. Mr. Corwine, manager of the Merchants' association's department of publicity, was talking today of the Omaha exposition, apropos of that big fair's impending termination.

"In my judgment," said Mr. Corwine, "the visit of the Merchants' association delegates to Omaha is sure to bear important fruit. It was one of the steps that are now being frequently taken in the direction of closer relations between the business east and west. It gave our men a chance to see what wonderful strides have been made in the west of late. It was almost as noteworthy as the conference between officials of the railroad passenger departments and commercial representatives of various eastern and western cities held in Chicago just before the New York delegation went to Omaha. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Detroit, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Chicago and other towns were represented in a new sort of convention, so to speak, at which it was plainly seen that more gatherings of the same scope could not fail to be of great benefit to all concerned and tentative arrangements for the future were therefore entered into. The next conference will be held some time in November at St. Louis, when it is expected that the attendance will be larger than it was at Chicago and the work done greater and of more importance.

"Improvement of trade relations between the east and the west, enlarged commercial activity abroad on the part of Americans, better consular service, improvement of legitimate waterways, the relation of railroads and cities and others of the larger business affairs of today will be discussed at the St. Louis conference in a way and in a spirit that must promote a clearer business understanding all round. It may turn out that in time this country will be able to boast of a formal national organization got up for the express purpose of holding conferences of a similar nature, and there is no doubt that it would tend to increase the general prosperity of the country."

American Versus English Consuls. It is somewhat singular that while Americans are just now talking more seriously than ever before about the need of a reform in our consular service, the English are beginning to say that America's gains in the world's trade are due to the superiority of that very service over the English. This is so startling a fact that Americans may find it difficult to believe, yet it is true nevertheless. Only the other day one of the foremost journals of London printed an article in which the most sincere tributes were paid, first, to the superior hustling qualities of American commercial travelers, and second, to the greater alertness of American consuls.

Until now the English have never tired of pointing out that our greatest element of weakness with regard to foreign trade lay in the exploiting of the American rotation in office principle in selecting consuls; but now, at least as selected by the London Mail, their great cry is that a remodeling of the British consular system on American lines is absolutely necessary (along with other things) if England's trade supremacy is to be maintained. It might be well for the Merchants' association and all others who believe America must adopt English methods in order to get a proper share of the world's business to make some investigation of the situation as it really is and see whether the rotation in office plan hasn't some advantages after all. It would be a curious thing if Great Britain should seriously think of changing the time honored British consular system for ours.

DEXTER MANNALL.

Signed by Twelve Captains. Springfield, Oct. 29.—Captain Crozier of company H, Holyoke, sent to Colonel Clark of the Second regiment a statement signed by the 12 captains of the Second regiment, denouncing as false and malicious the criticisms of the regiment by political opposition. The colonel has been accused of being too lenient for his men in Cuba. The captains' statement denies that allegation and adds that they have confidence in the colonel as a man and as commander of the regiment. They pronounce him an efficient leader.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Selling Cigarets to Minors.

The first arrest that has been made in this city for some time for selling cigarettes to minors was made yesterday, when Solomon Joseph was taken into custody. It is alleged that recently he sold a package of cigarettes to a boy, and the latter yesterday entered a complaint against him. It is thought that the complaint was the result of some disagreement between the boy and the dealer. Joseph was in court this morning, and had his case continued till Monday.

Mrs. John Houlihan of Bravewell avenue is visiting with friends in Mechanicville, N. Y.

L. M. Barnes has just returned from New York where he has been extensively purchasing goods for the holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Abercrombie of Greenfield were in town this week. Mr. Abercrombie is extensively interested in coffee plantations in Hawaii.

Mrs. L. M. Darby and Mrs. E. M. Dickinson are spending the week in Boston.

Ex-Congressman John C. Crosby of Pittsfield was in this city today.

Mason S. Stone, superintendent of education in Vermont, is the guest of Supt. I. F. Hall.

Held On a Serious Charge.

Giuseppe Glinino, an Italian, was in court this morning charged with the crime of rape on a young girl, alleged to have been committed October 21. The arrest was made on a warrant yesterday afternoon, the girl's mother making complaint. The case was continued till November 12, and Glinino was held under $10,000 bonds, which he was unable to secure.

To Organize the Clerks.

Another attempt will be made by the organizing committee of the Central Labor union next week to organize the clerks of the city into an association, to be affiliated with the Central union. Former attempts have been unsuccessful, but it is thought that the clerks will respond better this time.

An attempt will also be made to organize the carpenters of Adams into a union.

CHESHIRE.

Isaac Stitson, a hermit farmer about 60 years old and a bachelor living on Dalton mountain, was found dead yesterday afternoon near a spring about 40 rods from his house by Geo. Bennett, of Cheshire, who was drawing wood in that locality. It is thought he died from heart disease, and had lain there several days. The selectmen of Cheshire, notified Medical Examiner Padlock of Pittsfield and the selectmen of Dalton. The deceased was an eccentric character, living entirely alone and denying himself even the necessities of life, although it is thought he was worth about $20,000. He leaves a sister, who lives in Charlemon, and a brother in Cummington.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Brown were driving yesterday, when the hold back strap broke, and the horse jumping they were thrown out on a bank. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were badly shaken up, but were not injured.

The Avrin Wood farm was sold at auction this morning to Fred Lamb for $1,200.

DOCTOR "POSTUM."

Some Coffee Experience in Mexico.

"Some years ago I went to a city of Mexico, where I increased my coffee allowance quite considerably.

"In about three months, my nerves became seriously affected. A sort of stupor seemed to possess me all day and I suffered great discomfort from dyspepsia. I kept on, however, with the black coffee until just before I left, when I could not keep it down any longer. Had to quit, and took up cold water and milk.

"Then I reached New York City, a lady friend who used Postum Cereal Food Coffee regularly, recommended it. I gladly tried some of her coffee and found it all the owners claimed for it, a very delicious beverage the way she makes it.

"I have been entirely cured and am in perfect health in every way. Am a regular missionary for Postum.

"Whenever I hear a man or woman complain of any pain or disorder that arises from the nervous system, I prescribe Postum. Several of my business friends dub me 'Doctor Postum,' because I have cured them of their indigestion and dyspepsia."

Selling Cigarets to Minors.

The first arrest that has been made in this city for some time for selling cigarettes to minors was made yesterday, when Solomon Joseph was taken into custody. It is alleged that recently he sold a package of cigarettes to a boy, and the latter yesterday entered a complaint against him. It is thought that the complaint was the result of some disagreement between the boy and the dealer. Joseph was in court this morning, and had his case continued till Monday.

FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Leverino De Stefani Accused of More Serious Crime Than at First Thought.

HELD FOR HEARING LATER

On Three Charges. Long and Bisy Session of District Court This Morning, With Many Important Cases.

Leverino De Stefani, the Italian who was connected with the death by sending at the Arnold print works October 20, was charged with manslaughter in district court this morning. In addition to the two cases against him for felonious assault, The more serious charge was entered only today, and as the defense was not ready for this, the case was again continued to November 15 for hearing.

Stefani was held without bail, after much discussion among the attorneys. The court did not fix bail on the statement of Stefani's attorney that the prisoner would be unable to furnish it. The prisoner was therefore returned to jail to await the hearing.

There were many other cases in court and the session was a long and busy one. Frank Dominico, charged with felonious assault on John Mauerer in the Union, had his case again continued to November 16, and was held under $500 bonds.

Philomena Grande was tried on the charge of single sale, and was found not guilty. Max Cohen was also tried and discharged on the charge of larceny of a pair of trousers.

The cases against Frank King and others for larceny on September 3 were not pressed by consent of the prosecuting officer, William Stiner, the boy who pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery on Charles Watson, was fined $5.

Joseph Moquin was accused of breaking glass, and his case was continued till November 5. James Welch struck James Timothy in a saloon last evening, and paid $3 for the pleasure. One plain drink seemed to lose some in this company of greater sinners and was cared for properly.

A LIVELY BASEBALL GAME

By Street Railway Men in Which an Accident Occurs.

What promised to be an exciting baseball game was started at Lawsonian park at Zylonite Friday afternoon. It was to be a game between employees of the Housatonic Valley Street Railway company who work on the Williamstown and Adams branches. The Williamstown branch was represented by Chas. Scott, Supt. W. T. Nary, William Gates, Peter Charon and William Chalmers. The Adams men were Frank Barber, Robert Gilmore, Frank Kelly and Paul Breese. The batteries were Nary and Scott and Barber and Gilmore, respectively.

The game started with a rush. Supt. Nary made a home run and Conductor Gilmore did the same. William Gates made three vicious strikes at the ball and was out. William Chalmers got first base and reminded the players that he was an old time sprinter. He tried to steal second but fell down. He was put out. Peter Charon's shoe got him his base as the ball could not be pitched over the base without hitting him. Frank Barber, who used to play back stop for the Three Rivers, showed his opponents some "old time form" kicking at decisions. Paul Breese went to sleep in the field and Mr. Kelly had a hard time dodging the ball.

Three innings had been played and the score was 8 to 1 in favor of Adams when Charles Scott slid for second and broke a bone in his left wrist. Dr. Hurd, Zylonite attended. The accident caused a halt in the game. In an after play Motorium Gates hit a fly ball and sent it over the fence and into the mill yard of the Mannessman Tube works. The ball was lost until found by Mr. Gates' dog "Dan."

The Grand Army Fair.

The G. A. R. fair will open this evening in Grand Army hall and continue every evening next week. Many of the attractions have already been set forth and all indications point to a very successful event. The attraction this evening will be a concert by the Premier orchestra. There will be piano, bicycle and other contests, and a door prize will be awarded each night. An interesting feature will be a loan exhibition of war relics and souvenirs. Supper will be served by the Woman's Relief corps tonight and next Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 5 to 7 o'clock. There will be dancing every night next week except Saturday. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the organization and a good patronage is hoped for. The price of admission is 15 cents.

Evening Schools Next Week.

The evening schools will open Monday and teachers have been elected as follows: Drury, Miss Maude E. Amador, Miss Dora A. Radin, Miss J. Marion Woodward, Miss Curran, Mrs. McAdoo, Miss Gertrude Sheldon, Clifford Hawkins, Houghton school, Miss Elizabeth F. Flynn, Miss Alice E. Bulkeley, C. A. Parker; Brayton school, Mrs. Ella L. Little, Clifford Lawrence; Greylock, M. W. Thomas, George W. Ashton. It is probable that more teachers may have to be added to the list later. Four rooms will be in use at Drury academy.

Under the new law compelling employers to report to the school authorities all minors in their employment who cannot read and write, 124 such cases have been reported to Superintendent Hall, with the Graylock mill to hear from.

The free evening drawing school will also open Monday evening.

POWNAAL

A mistake was made in the name of James Morgan's bride in yesterday's issue. It should have been Miss Varley.

Mrs. Col. M. Barber U. S. A., is visiting in town.

Several of our young people met at Ernest Haley's and spent the evening in an enjoyable manner.

Cleveland's BAKING POWDER
A choice receipt for biscuit.
Receipt.—Sift with one quart flour two teaspoonsful Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder and one-half teaspoonful salt. Rub in shortening (butter and lard mixed) the size of an egg, and wet with enough sweet milk to make soft dough. Handle as little as possible and roll out about one inch thick. Cut the desired size, and bake twenty minutes. Do not have the oven too hot at first—increase the heat.
Receipt book free. 75 pages, 50 receipts. Send stamp and address, Cleveland Baking Powder Co., New York.

Searchlights in Balloons.

Russia is experimenting with giant searchlights mounted in balloons and containing electric burners connected with dynamos upon the ground. The largest of these yet reported is of 5,000 candle power. At a distance of only 600 yards above the earth it will illuminate a circular area 500 yards in diameter to the brightness of the day.

Wrought and Cast.

"Tell me," said the teacher, "what is the difference between wrought iron and cast iron?"
"Well," replied Will, smiling, "the shoe worn by a horse is a wrought iron shoe, but when the horse loses the shoe from his foot it becomes a cast iron shoe."—London Answers.

Soldiers in China.

Soldiers are despised in China. They belong only to the coolie classes. The German officers engaged some time ago by the Chinese government found that their most important task was to overcome the soldiers' own feeling that they were a lower order of beings than other Chinamen.

Resolutions.

At the annual meeting of the Fort Massachusetts Historical society the following resolutions to the memory of Shubael W. Brayton were offered by Mrs. C. H. Williams, unanimously adopted, and ordered printed:

In recording the death June 19, 1898, of Mr. S. W. Brayton, who was president of the Fort Massachusetts Historical society for the two and a half years since its organization the 18th of January, 1896, the members of this society wish to express their sense of the loss which the society has sustained.

Mr. Brayton was peculiarly fitted to give helpful counsel because of his wide knowledge of matters pertaining to this organization. He was a well-informed historian of our country, and above all others he was an authority in our local history and the development of our city from its earliest beginnings, in fact his whole life was interwoven with our civic life in which he was ever a distinguished part, and his ancestors were among the brave defenders of our liberties in the early days.

Notwithstanding his feeble health Mr. Brayton was ever ready and happy to serve this society by giving such and other help as was in his power required. He had a true sense of the value to any community, of a just pride in an honorable past history and believed in preserving historical data and making them a means of education and culture.

Mr. Brayton looked forward with hope to the new life and growth which should come to this society when the small collection of historical papers and relics should be properly arranged and displayed in the beautiful rooms set apart for it in the memorial library.

Resolved, That this resolution be put on the records of the society and a copy be sent to the family with our deep sympathy.

FIVE COURSE TICKETS FOR $1.00.

The Y. M. C. A. have decided to place the tickets for the remaining five entertainments of their popular course at the low sum of $1.00. The next entertainment will be on Friday evening, November 11, and will consist of a concert by the Schubert Glee club.

The Schubert Glee club is organized out of the old Schubert Quartette with the addition of a soprano and a pianist, with reader and impersonator, violinist and cornetist. The company also includes a combination of voices and string instruments. They have given over four thousand concerts, and during all that time have taken rank among the best musical clubs in the country. Although the personnel of the club has been changed from time to time, the changes made have usually been for the better, and we are safe in saying that no better company is now before the public. The Glee club is fortunate in securing the services of Mr. C. Edmund Neil, as reader and impersonator, for the season's entertainments. Miss Taylor, as soprano, pianist and accompanist, has genuine all around musical ability which eminently fits her for the position. Mr. Lucas, as violinist and Mr. Hiant, as cornetist, are worthy of places in this excellent company.

WHITE OAKS.

Miss Anna Wright is improving. Mrs. Arthur Moody, W. H. Hiley and Rev. W. R. Stocking were elected delegates to the conference of churches at Dalton on Tuesday.

Mrs. James Collier, who with her husband Rev. C. W. Collier, has been spending a year of study and travel in Europe, chiefly in Germany, is visiting her father, John Wheeler.

Miss Minnie Hunter had to leave her school last week on account of sickness and will not be able to return for some days. Dr. Woodbridge is attending her.

Rev. Mr. Stryker is organizing the men into a Temple club which is based upon three simple principles: Faith in God, faith in men, service. It is hoped in this way to unite our men in brotherly helpfulness and add to the strength and dignity of the community. The club meets Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock for organization.

The Y. P. S. C. E. social and reception to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Russell Friday evening was a great success. The rooms were prettily decorated and after the young couple had taken their seats with the flag as a background, there was singing and prayer by Mr. Stryker. The president of the society, Will Stocking, then welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Russell and introduced in turn some of the old bachelors, F. C. Lindley, John Henderson, Jesse Lee, and Eugene Lee responded. Later, with Ernest Towne as auctioneer, the young men were sold to the highest bidder among the ladies present. Miss Edith Ambrose sang and a bountiful supply of refreshments were served.

ROWE.

A. A. Shippee recently shipped 10 carloads of cider apples.

Henry Wright and Mrs. Wright have returned from a trip through Connecticut.

Professor E. A. Tower was in town Wednesday trying to interest the people in the purchase of the reservoir property.

There are 17 men from Albany packing apples for Cavanaugh & Co. This firm has bought about 5,000 barrels of winter fruit in this town.

The registrars will meet Saturday from 12 o'clock noon to 10 o'clock, p. m. This will be the last chance for registering voters before election.

WOODFORD.

Wm. Dowles moved Monday on to his winter's logging job.

Hiram Potter has moved into the Geo. Townsend house.

Mail for Woodford from Danington now leaves at 1:30 o'clock.

Eddie Stone has so far recovered as to be able to visit his parents.

Brainard Canedy of Hartwellville has been in town selling soap.

Blasting is going on at the Rocks' with better results than expected.

Despite the attendance of a veterinary surgeon Henry Cutler's horse died.

Byron Leray is hauling potatoes from his farm in Searsburg to his home in Woodford.

Mrs. J. F. Smith visited her sister, Mrs. Aaron Denis at Bennington Falls, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Denton of Rutland recently enjoyed a carriage drive to Woodford. Mr. Denton was geologically inclined on the trip and made examinations of several rare specimens of rocks and boulders in Danby and other towns. Mr. and Mrs. Denton were formerly for many years residents of Woodford.

Master Arthur Grover of Athol, Mass., sends us a picture drawn by himself, in colors, of the Rough Riders engaged in battle on San Juan hill, near Santiago. Returned soldiers say the picture is true to life. It was drawn from imagination. Young Grover was born in Woodford, and lived here until he was ten years old.

A Word of Warning

The trouble with thousands of women is not "female weakness," although many physicians suppose it is. The real trouble lies in the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder. Doctors often fail to effect a cure, simply because they don't give the right remedy. Women as well as men can ascertain for themselves if their Kidneys are diseased.

Ladies can take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with perfect assurance of relief. It will cure them of Kidney, Liver and Bladder disorders just as certainly as it cures men.

Mrs. G. W. DAVENPORT, of West Troy, N. Y., says: "I was troubled with my Kidneys, and suffered intense pain in my back and joints. The wife of Dr. Robinson, pastor of the First Avenue Methodist Church, recommended Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I got some, and have used it ever since, with the result that I am greatly benefited. All pains have left me, and I am like another person."

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is a perfect blood and nerve medicine. It restores the liver to a healthy condition and cures the worst cases of constipation. It is a certain cure for all diseases peculiar to females.

Sample Bottle Free

Favorite Remedy is such a certain cure that the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., will forward, prepaid, a free sample bottle to every sufferer who sends his or her full postoffice address and mentions this paper. The fact that our liberal offer appears in this paper is a guarantee of its genuineness.

All druggists sell Favorite Remedy at $1.00 a bottle.

OUR BOSTON LETTER.

A Kicking Cow Not the Equal of Kicking Politicians.

Withdrawal of Nomination Papers Has Cleared the Atmosphere—Discussion of Caucus and Convention System Results From All-Night Sessions—Direct Nominations Suggested as Remedy—Boom in Passenger Transatlantic Service—New Steamer Certainly—Chinese Ladies of High Degree Live at the Hub—Sad Effects of Whiskey Drinking—Mayor's Free Concerts Attacked—Personal and Dramatic.

When in two or three of my recent letters I discussed briefly the political situation in this locality I thought I had done justice to that subject and that further reference would be unnecessary, but a faithful record of the week makes further mention imperative. The past week may be said to have been all politics up to Monday night, when the withdrawal of nomination papers cleared the atmosphere. The proverbial cow that took delight in kicking over the well-filled vat of milk was in it with the Democrats who seemed desirous of destroying any chances of success they might have. Candidates Hall and Napier were busy calling each other liars, and Gallivan and McNary exchanged compliments and washed dirty linen in the public press. At the same time Atwood in the Republican camp was sharpening his knife to destroy candidate Barrows, and independent candidate Gardner with his newspaper was watching for a chance to hit a head anywhere he saw one that appeared prominent.

But Monday afternoon brought a change. Atwood and Gardner retired from the field in the Tenth congressional district and left an open field to Napier and Barrows, and only Gallivan is left in the field to divide the vote in the Ninth district with Fitzgerald and Krebs. This means that Fitzgerald will go back to congress, and in all probability that Barrows will succeed him. The retirement of Atwood will be little mourned, Gardner had little or no strength, while people generally feel that Borden Hall deserved better success. Gallivan is really the brightest light to be snuffed out by the machine, but must go down. The machine is for Fitzgerald and will pull him through.

The unusual trouble in making nominations in both party conventions, where delegates have participated in all-night sessions and reached results only to create widespread dissension, because of the deals necessary to reach any conclusion at all, has led to a considerable discussion of our present system and the means to remedy its defects. The most radical change suggested and perhaps the only one that could reach the root of trouble is suggested by a politician of great experience, who insists that the remedy lies in abolishing the nominating convention, except for president, vice president and state officers, and letting the voters themselves directly nominate their candidates for Mayor, congress, state and city representatives. Elaborating his plan, he proposes that the nominating caucuses of both parties shall be held at the same time and the same place, and conducted by the same officers under the laws now provided for elections. He would have each voter decide whether he desires to name a Republican or Democratic candidate, and mark his ballot as under the Australian system; the person having the highest number of Republican votes being declared the candidate of the Republican party, and so with the person having the highest number of Democratic votes. That plan is pleasing on paper, but if majority nominations are to be made Boston would have to begin holding caucuses in July to ensure a choice before the official ballot is made up.

The movement to increase the transatlantic passenger business from this city has increased interest with the announcement that still another ocean steamer of large dimensions is being built for service between Boston and Liverpool. This is the direct result of the encouraging outlook for an increased passenger and freight business from this port. One of the owners of the Dominion line of steamships, whose new liners, the New England and the Canada, are among the largest steamers now running here, has been here the past week in the interest of his company, and confirmed in an interview before sailing for home the report that another vessel was being built to accommodate the traffic to and from Boston. This steamer expert is of the opinion that the construction of the Broad sound channel is all that remains now, in his estimation, to make this port. "Why," he said, that amount to enthusiasm, "you have every natural advantage. Everything desirable that other harbors have you have, together with some that they do not possess. Nature has done a great deal toward giving this city excellent sea-board advantages. The stillness of your water, as compared, for instance, with the harbor at Liverpool, is most remarkable and adds wonderfully to the value of the harbor for shipping of every class."

As the Warren, Johnston, Cunard and other lines are also increasing their tonnage, Boston is getting better service in the way of up-to-date freight and passenger lines than ever before. This city ought to have a larger transatlantic passenger business than it has had, and with the accommodations which are now offered, it is safe to say that more traffic of this kind will be the rule hereafter. Boston is some 20 miles nearer Liverpool than New York, and one, by taking passage here, besides saving these extra miles of travel, avoids the tiresome journey to New York. The trip is made between this port and Liverpool within the week and under the most pleasant and comfortable auspices. New Englanders who go across the water are, in this respect, in a better position than in this respect is bright. Watch the boom for the port of Boston.

There was a striking object lesson on the effect of too much whiskey drinking in one of our local courts last week. The leading figure appeared in the person of John Carney, whose home is in that delightful suburb, Jamaica Plain, a young man of 39 years of age. Of these few years of life many have been passed behind the bars of some prison or reform school, yet never in his life has he been seen in a charge other than the drunkennes. When before the court on Saturday last he appeared for the 142d time. That he has not been arrested more often is due to the fact that of late he has always been given, as he was on Saturday, long sentences—the last being for one year.

Carney's drunkenness is not the drunkenness that men in despair seek for. Since the time he was 17 years old he has had a mad craving for liquor that the years have not quelled and that the repeated punishments of courts have not made to cease. When he was a mere boy he was arrested for being in an unbecomingly drunk condition. He appeared in court next day with no thought that an appearance there was to be a many times repeated experience. He swore off on being released, but the period of abstinence was not remarkable. Yet he was well liked, and one woman loved him well enough to marry him, in what proved to be the foolish hope of reforming him. He has taken the cure, but desire did not fall, and a little later he appeared before the judge who had sent him to the sanitarium, with the news of a new spree against him. In short Carney is a hopeless case. Death alone will release him from the bonds that are stronger than his will.

It is a pleasure to record that the teachers of the mission schools of the city have discovered in our well known Chinatown something besides gambling and opium dens. The police have often raided this section, but always to find the bad—and they have generally succeeded. The mission teachers went there to do good and to find it if it was there, and their report is that only a block away from the Hub's busiest thoroughfare these ladies of high degree, as their tiny feet testify, live with their children in true Oriental seclusion. These are the wives of the rich merchants and importers, most of whose stores are located upon the new Harrison-avenue extension, the Chinese district of the city. Not only that, but report says they are apparently contented and devoted to their household and its duties.

In the summer time scenes of wistaria, fragrant narcissus blossoms, and many other floral wonders for which Chinese floriculturists are noted, serve to remind the exiles of their native land. Here they live happily, surrounded by everything which money and the fondness of their husbands can supply. No woman's club sessions divide their attention with household cares, and no outside interests ruffle the serenity of their domestic peace. They enjoy the ideal existence desired for by those weary of the "new woman." Comparatively few people outside the Chinese colony are aware of their existence, for Celestial etiquette, inexorable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, does not permit the reception of gentlemen visitors in the home, and the bound feet of these Pauline women do not permit them to walk abroad, as these women are not known to the world, they are the hope of ordinary mortals gazing upon them. They are, however, justly the pride of Chinatown.

I met an indignant gentleman the other day who remarked: "If I go on would furnish every citizen of Boston a free pass to the celestial regions even an approved route we have a class of citizens in our midst who would kick and want to go some other way." The cause of the remark was the complaint of the Sabbath Protective league against Mayor Quincy's municipal Sunday concert in Music hall. The idea of municipal concerts may not meet with universal favor, but the position of the league, even if it be consistent, will hardly find general endorsement. There are few who will believe that a high-class musical entertainment, even if given Sunday night, will do more harm than good. In its ultra-conservative course, the league is not likely to exert so powerful an influence for good as it might exert, if it exhibited a more reasonable spirit.

Andrew Mack is to do an occasional bill of three one-act pieces at special matinees during the present season. It will probably consist of Boucicault's "Kerry," a one-act farce made famous by John Brougham, and a new comedy by a California author.

For the week beginning Monday, Oct. 31, the management of the Castle Square theater has selected "The Fatal Card" for revival. It will be remembered that the Castle Square company made a notable success in the original production of the drama.

It is said that the Handel and Haydn society has engaged Miss Josephine Jacoby and Mr. David Bispham for their annual performance of the "Messiah" at Christmas. The other soloists are not as yet determined upon.

In celebration of the 25th performance of "The French Maid" in Boston, elaborate souvenirs, particularly suitable to ladies, will be presented at the performance occurring on Monday evening, Oct. 31.

Louise Thorndyke Boucicault, in a one-act play, the Willet-Thorne farces, in "At the Cafe," and the Ladies' Verdict appear, are some of the Keith bookings for the week of Oct. 31.

The popular American play, "In Old Kentucky," which has countless thousands of friends in all parts of the country, will be seen at the Columbia week of Oct. 31.

The many friends of "Jack" Mason will be pleased to learn that he has made a great hit in the part of Horatio Drake in support of Viola Allen in "The Christian."

Li Petite Adelaide has a new dance in "A Reign of Error" at the Boston Museum, and it is one of the daintiest that she has yet introduced.

Proto, Boston's favorite dancer, has reached London and in "The Belle of New York," the Shaftsbury theater, has made a big hit.

"The Girl From Paris" has been captivating the good people of Canada, and is now on her way to this city.

Keith's new theater at Providence will now dispute Boston's claim to the model playhouse of the country.

Keeping In Trim.

Dewey's gunners have not lost their cunning. They are the same old dead shots who sent the Spanish fleet to the bottom drawer of Mr. David Jones' locker, and they are ready for more real gunning. That they may not forget their gunning, they are constantly kept in practice. The Olympia has a rehearsal of the real thing five days each week, and the rest of the fleet, down to the auxiliary cruiser McCulloch, follows the lead to a liberal extent.

There is no needless waste of ammunition, for it is too precious for all that, but subalterns are used. Small shells inserted in large tubes or cases are inserted in the heavier guns, and so on for the size of the projectile. The results obtained are the same. The gunners fire at a floating target, which is towed past the ships by a launch, and the accuracy of their firing is wonderful. Each of the moving targets is surmounted by a red flag, usually about two feet square. One of that kind was used by the Olympia the other day, and at ranges varying from 800 to 700 yards the ship was punctured five times. The short, long snort of the gun, the flash of the muzzle, and the float itself was badly disfigured by the keen eyed, cool headed Americans behind the guns.—San Francisco Chronicle.

He Fought.

During the late Spanish-American war a certain old colonel who had served all through the civil war and who had lost one of his eyes at the battle of Gettysburg, was very indignant because he was put aside as physically incapacitated when he applied for admission to one of the New York volunteer regiments.

Filled with wrath, he journeyed to Washington, bent on having a personal interview with the president. He succeeded in gaining an audience, and the president, after listening to his plea, said kindly: "But, my good Colonel J., you have only one eye."

"Just so, sir," was the prompt rejoinder. "I don't see you as the greatest advantage of my having only one eye. When I aim my gun, I will not have to close the other."

He fought at Santiago.—Harper's Bazar.

Gladstone's Memory.

Mr. Gladstone had such a good memory himself, that he was inclined to be impatient with those who had not. At dinner in London a few years ago he was sketching, to the delight of the company, a stirring scene in the house of commons in the early forties. Lord Granville was a guest at the dinner and was in the company at the time of the events to which Gladstone referred.

"Did you take part in the division?" asked Mr. Gladstone of Lord Granville.

"Yes, sir, I don't know," replied Lord Granville. "I can't remember whether I did or not."

"Not remember!" fairly shouted Gladstone. "Why, it was only 48 years ago."

Old Age Pension.

The New Zealand assembly has just passed an old age pension bill, which applies to all persons over 65 years old. The pension amounts to $5.00 a year, or about $1.76 a week, and no one who has an income of over $500 a year, or property worth more than $2,700 will be entitled to it. Twenty years' residence in the colony and ten years' exemplary conduct are among the other qualifications, the vagrant and the drunkard being thus shut off.

Salisbury's Guard.

Lord Salisbury has a powerful life guard ever at his side. This is an English bred of faithful hounds of immense strength and bulging tonnage. One of these is the premier's close friend and accompanies him in his walks about Hatfield. So faithful a guardian is he that Lord Salisbury, with a touch of his characteristic playful irony, has called him Pharoah—because he will not let the poe-

IF WE HAD THE TIME.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
To look before me and to look behind
I might be wiser than I am now show
In my daily life that rushes on
It might be that I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal.
I might be moved by the thought sublime—
If I had the time.

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and tell in my life's part
To look before me and to look behind
I might be wiser than I am now show
In my daily life that rushes on
It might be that I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal.
I might be moved by the thought sublime—
If I had the time.

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my world would do,
And I tell you then of my sudden will
To let my feet when I did you fill:
If the team back of the oldness lodged
Could draw and move me quite explained.
Brothers, the souls of us all would change—
If we had the time.

THE GOLDEN ROSES.

A glowing southern sun bathed the drowsy old garden in a flood of molten gold. The milky yucca blossoms mingled their beauty with that of the flaming scarlet of the cactus. The arbutus and the roses hung their luscious fruit within tempting distance, while over the thick white adobe wall, across the trellis before the house and up to the senorita's bedroom window, climbed in a riot of yellow splendor the superb Gold of Ophir rose tree, famous along the entire coast.

Never was there such another rose tree. Its limbs were as thick as a man's arm and its blossoms were great, pink, on a nest of color and perfume. It bloomed the year round, bloomed for offerings before Our Lady's shrine in the old mission; bloomed for weddings and funerals; for the tourist who paused at the senorita's gate to wonder and exclaim at the marvel, and for the senorita herself.

The senorita was straight and tall and slender. Though the gray was beginning to creep in her dusky hair and the delicate features of her face were beginning to show, she was a handsome woman, with the same Andalusian features, the soft, sparkling eyes, the clear olive skin, her beautiful mother had brought from Spain years ago.

In the tiny, low coiled drawing room, immaculate as a sanctuary, with its snowy matting, its wooden blinds, its sandal thresholds, among the images of the martyrs and the pictures of the blessed saints, hung the portrait of a young girl, who when she was 18, she wore, as became her station, a silken gown and a string of pearls about her throat. Over the superbly molded shoulders a birth of rare lace was thrown and in her hands she held a Gold of Ophir rose—the first one ever plucked from the bush before her door.

Every afternoon when the senorita finished her household duties, before she sat down to her daily work, which was a sort of her daily occupation, and from which she derived a modest income, it was her custom to enter the drawing room, and, after adjusting the blinds so that the sunlight would touch the portrait gently, to stand before it intently regarding her own lost youth.

"Madro di Dios," was the murmured exclamation, "but it was long time ago—long time ago—a vase of golden roses on a little stand before the picture. When the senorita's gaze fell on the picture, it fell upon the flowers. With a gentle sigh she would pensively touch the petals with a quivering finger, then silently and like a ghost slowly glide from the room.

This was the little shrine at which the senorita worshiped, loved and remembered. Every day were these unostentatious ceremonies repeated. Every day her gentle voice murmured, "Madro di Dios, but it was long time ago—long time ago."

Years before, when the senorita had been young, a beauty and the belle of the little Spanish-American settlement, up at the Presidio there had been a gallant young lieutenant who fell desperately in love with the charming Spaniard. Their courtship amid the myrtle and orange groves under the warm moonlight of the south-eastern coast, and the long, long nights, when the senorita's gaze fell on the picture, it fell upon the flowers. With a gentle sigh she would pensively touch the petals with a quivering finger, then silently and like a ghost slowly glide from the room.

open. Two people advanced slowly and uncertainly through the gathering dusk—a man and a woman, young, fashionably dressed, with an unmistakable air of good breeding. The man stepped forward and with a slight bow, said: "I have the honor of addressing you, Senorita Rosa Bonaventura."

He stopped abruptly as a sharp cry broke from the senorita's lips. She had then, with her customary courtesy, at the first words of the stranger and stood now looking desperately to the trellis over which the rose tree climbed.

"Senorita Maria!" she breathed rather than spoke. "Who it is?"

"I am sorry to have startled you so," replied the visitor gently. "We were told to hold the senorita's room quiet, and that strangers should see this beautiful tree as we would not have intruded. I beg your pardon." And he turned as if to go.

"Stay, senor," she cried. "Do not go. I will show you the roses with happiness." At that point she saw which gave her no more to start. Jesu Cristo, but you are like some one!

"I think you knew my father," said the stranger. He was stationed here as the Presidio years ago, and I have often heard him speak of this charming old town."

"Your father here?"

"Yes, my father, General Saunders—Lieutenant Saunders when he was here."

There was a profound silence. The straight, slim figure seemed to tremble to stone. The great dark eyes looked out from under the folds of the black tulle with sad intensity and earnest scrutiny.

From Saunders' face a glow of sympathy, tinged by some vague, unknown tragedy. His young wife, too, was experiencing a sensation, as if she were looking on at a mysterious phase of human emotion, and drawing near her husband clasped his arm with both her hands and turned her sweet face, full of tender sympathy, toward the senorita.

For an instant they stood thus, three souls looking out of their windows to scan each other with searching looks. Then the young wife spoke, and that "Oh," she said in a low, grave voice, "I did know your father—long time ago—long time ago."

"Did you not know—but of course you would not have heard"—said Saunders mechanically.

"No," said Saunders. "And before he died he charged me with a sacred commission. He knew that I was coming here on my wedding journey. He called me to him one day and said: 'When you get there, I want you to hunt up Senorita Ygnacia Bonaventura. Tell her for me that now as I am nearing death, I see with clearer vision, and that I regret the past. Tell her that as I lie here racked with pain, I long, I long, for the coolest breeze from the sea, and that I long for the long watches of each restless night I smell again the perfume from the golden roses I plucked before her door.'"

There was a sound of sobbing as Saunders finished his pathetic message. It came from his wife, who was profoundly affected by the situation. But the senorita did not weep. Her white face was taut in her agony, but not a tear glittered in her somber eyes. She held out her hand to the young wife and said: "Sit here, both his and pressed it gently. 'She has suffered for my father's sake,' was the thought that flashed through his mind, and he bent his head and laid a reverent kiss upon the senorita's brow, toll worn hand."

As Saunders and his wife were leaving, her arms filled with branches and clusters of the Gold of Ophir roses, the senorita held open the gate for them. When Saunders passed, she laid her hand on the hand of that year's blossoms, a great royal golden rose. "For the lieutenant's grave," she simply said.

Saunders bowed, too much moved to speak. And six weeks later the ashes of that perfect flower were reverently strewn over a grave in Greenwood.

Hours after their departure the senorita entered the little drawing room. Her face was pale and haggard and old. She hit her flickering candle high before the portrait and gazed steadfastly upon the beautiful young face that smiled down at her.

"Madro di Dios," she breathed, "but it was long time ago!"

The next morning they tried in vain to wake the senorita. She lay still and cold on her bed, drawn close to the open casement. Through the window the great, gay, golden roses climbed and looked into the senorita's chamber, and the head that the rose had laid its yellow head close to the dead heart of the senorita—

Engraving on Diamonds.

Diamonds can now be engraved in a very artistic manner.

One of the most beautiful of the diamond cutting art brings into existence a new class of jewelry, for which a considerable demand is expected. It was long believed that the diamond could not be engraved with safety or satisfactory results. But a few stones roughly engraved were found in India, and a diamond was exhibited at the Paris exhibition of 1878 on which a portrait of the King of Holland was scratched.

But the work was very imperfect, and the stones were rather demolished than engraved.

Some of the finest examples of engraving on diamonds are the work of a Paris jeweler. One is a scarfpiece representing a yaghtman, of which the blade is a slender diamond, and the handle is a ruby. Another is a large circular stone, on which a pansy with its foliage is engraved.

An elaborate piece of work is a hylete, of which the wheel are two circular diamonds. The spokes are represented by lines engraved on the diamonds. A small hole is pierced at each angle.

Another diamond is carved like a fish. A handsome brooch is a scarfpiece, surrounded by sapphires and brilliants.

Other examples are brooches representing ideas, of which the wings are thin, engraved diamonds, two diamonds engraved with arabic letters, the imperial arms of Russia being used in one instance on shirt and cuff buttons.—London Answers.
